Activity 1 - GREAT Theatre

Activity Type: Workshop

Description of program – GREAT Theatre offered two workshops at each of GRRL's 32 branches for children: an Explore & Connect Drama Workshop and a Page-to-Stage Workshop. Both workshops allowed children to explore drama from a variety of angles and inspire their imaginations. GREAT Theatre provided 10 Interactive Fairy Tale productions of "Rumpelstiltskin," which were theatre productions with audience participation for ages 3-8. GREAT also developed a performance to go along with the 2011 Summer Reading Program, "One World, Many Stories," which told stories from around the world and gave children a look at world cultures. This was performed at all 32 branch libraries in June.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees or their parent/caregiver were able to identify one new concept or technique learned [workshops: knowledge] or have an increased positive attitude toward theatre [Interactive Fairy Tale: attitude].

Measurable Outcomes: Feedback was overwhelmingly positive and most feedback indicated that attendees learned acting about different theatre and acting concepts, and inspired children to be creative. One parent wrote that their daughter would like to be in a play after attending a Page-to-Stage workshop. "It's great to have these options for our kids to learn about things they may otherwise not be introduced to," wrote another. One comment was that a child enjoyed the acting games and felt more comfortable 'acting' in front of others after the workshop. One child wrote of the 'Diary of a Wimpy Kid' Explore & Connect workshop that he learned "how cool it is" to act.

Activity 2 – Genealogy Laptop Lab

Activity Type: Education

Description of program – Using GRRL's Laptop Lab, each branch will have up to one training session on searching for family history information. Sessions were presented by trained genealogists.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify one new skill or resource learned [knowledge].

Measurable Outcomes: Feedback indicated that attendees learned about specific family history websites. One wrote that they found out the St. Michael Historical Society is a good place to get genealogy information via the class. One wrote, "I can't wait to go home and use [what I learned]." Attendees also learned techniques for distinguishing good information from bad, and for formulating a meaningful search for genealogical information. Attendees frequently commented on how knowledgeable the presenters were (Stephen Barthel and Tom Rice). One comment was "Best presentation I've been to as far as getting information into time given—presenter didn't get off subject." Another wrote, "Grateful for presentation here locally."

Activity 3 – Authors/Performers/Presenters

Activity Type: Education

Description of program – Each GRRL branch had a pool of funds to plan author talks, artistic performances (music, dance, theatre, storytellers, etc.), or presentations related to arts and culture (genealogists, craftspeople, exhibits of artwork to support presentations by artists, etc.). Partners listed below under Activity Details.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify one new concept or fact learned about writing, history, art, etc. [knowledge] or have an increased positive attitude about live music performance [concerts: attitude]

Measurable Outcomes: Attendees enjoyed a wide variety of performances and presentations. One attendee wrote, "I am so grateful for the opportunity to see Ann Reed LIVE! I can't afford concert tickets and this was free!" Another wrote, "I enjoyed the speaker/poet and the personal touch she had with her poems and us [attendees]." Comments on the presentations from the Laura Ingalls Wilder presentation nearly all noted that they learned how difficult life was in the 1800s. Attendees of one of the Lauren Pelon events wrote that they learned about many different instrument and music types. Those who attended the CLIMB Theatre 'Return to Honor' performances wrote that they realized how difficult it is for soldiers returning home after fighting, and that there are ways they can help. All attendees of trips to the Guthrie Theater for performances were immensely positive. People appreciated not having to drive, going someplace they never would have gone without Legacy funding, and the high quality of the theatre available in Minnesota. One commenter wrote, "Surely appreciate what all Minnesotans can do when we work together. Putting all our pennies together we can build great works!"

Activity Type: Education

Description of program – Mixed Blood Theatre provided their popular touring performances on a variety of cultural topics to selected branches.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify at least one new idea or concept learned [knowledge].

Measurable Outcomes: Those who attended the Mixed Blood performances were impressed with the high quality of acting and noted what they learned via the plays. "The information that came with this is invaluable," one wrote about the 'Minnecanos' play. "[I learned about] the struggle and hardships from the Mexican-American point of view. The actors and story were awesome." Another wrote that they liked everything about the program, "Amazing message, story, and passion! Great history of deportation of Mexican people." One 7-year-old attendee appreciated the music in the performance, as noted by his mother. Another commenter who attended 'Dr. King's Dream' wrote, "Learned many interesting details about the Civil Rights Movement. Thank you for the marvelous and entertaining historic description."

Activity 5 – Pages of Music

Activity Type: Workshop

Description of program – Pages of Music with Rolf and Carrie bring a classical chamber music program with oboe and bass to each of our 32 branches.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify at least one new idea or concept learned [knowledge] or have a richer cultural life [concerts: attitude].

Measurable Outcomes: In the final quarter of the year, most of the Pages of music events were concerts, which were appreciated. Attendees of the Pages of Music workshops learned more about Mozart's life and music, including his life as a child musical prodigy. Some events were held at schools to reach a maximum number of children. One teacher wrote, "This program really introduced the students to the oboe and bass. They were eager to learn and were captivated by the music and stories. Thank you for exposing our students to the arts!" A second teacher wrote, "I think [the program] opened up a new appreciation with the kids as far as what the opera is all about." Another teacher wrote, "They made the show exciting for kids and they used kid-friendly language. One of the better shows I have seen. The kids were smiling, learning, and having a great time."

Activity 6 – Art & Writing Workshops

Activity Type: Workshop

Description of program – Each branch offered at least one art or writing workshop with a focus on either visual or performing arts or the art of the written word. Partners provided education on a variety of art and writing topics.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify at least one new learned skill or increased positive attitude toward art and/or writing [workshops: knowledge/attitude].

Measurable Outcomes: Attendees of the Art & Writing workshops appreciated the opportunity to try their hand at a variety of art techniques and projects. One attendee of the interactive dance performance wrote, "I saw different types of dance, and it was great to see the children join in—they learn so much this way!" A comment from someone who attended a mosaics workshop wrote, "[I learned] how to design, cut tile, use glue/grout. It was nice to do with my niece." Another wrote, "I learned that working at mosaics is really great fun. I learned everything I needed to work at beginning mosaic art. Lisa Arnold is fantastic." An attendee of a Minnesota Center for Book Arts workshop wrote that the class was, "Very fun! My first time in this library." People who attended writing workshops with Britt Aamodt said that they learned more about character development and writing techniques. Attendees of the Marie Olofsdotter workshops got to create their own 'house book,' a book in the shape of a house, with a variety of colorful papers from around the world. One person wrote that they learned to work more toward finishing a project and satisfying themselves with the outcome, and another wrote that they learned "a new way to be creative." Another attendee wrote, "It's great to make art with others!"

Activity 8 – Guthrie Theater classes

Activity Type: Workshop

Description of program – The Guthrie Theatre brought their skilled teaching artists for workshops on a variety of topics, including memoir-writing, acting, and dance. Each branch offered one class.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Attendees will be able to identify one new technique (for either acting or writing) that they learned [workshops: knowledge].

Measurable Outcomes: Attendees of the Guthrie workshops learned many things about writing memoirs, acting games and techniques, and state combat. Attendees commented on the memoir classes that they learned not to worry about how to write, just to write. One attendee wrote, "[I learned] how to structure a memoir, and different approaches define a memoir." Another wrote that they would definitely bring their friends to a future workshop, because they "loved it!" One commenter who attended a memoir workshop said, "[I learned] how to break down—make an outline—and how to start and achieve this project."

Activity 8 – Minnesota Historical Society/Minnesota's Greatest Generation SELCO partnership

Activity Type: Education

Description of program – The MHS/MGG statewide partnership includes a wide variety of programs along the theme of Minnesota's Greatest Generation, including history speakers, reenactors, musical performances, presentations, tours of the MHS/MGG exhibit in St. Paul, and more.

Proposed Measurable Outcomes: End User
Introduction to various art forms; appreciation for history.

Measurable Outcomes: Attendees learned about history topics through the MHS statewide partnership programs. One attendee of the Rhonda Laurie 'Happy Days Are Here Again' concert wrote that they learned "So much history! A wonderful program. Thank you." Another wrote that they enjoyed learning the history along with hearing the old songs. Someone even wrote that they drove to Delano from Minneapolis for the program. Those who went on the bus tours to the Minnesota History Center were very appreciative of the opportunity to view the exhibits and not worry about driving. Many seniors enjoyed the exhibit and sharing the Greatest Generation memories with their family and friends. Those who attended the programs in Upsala and St. Michael on 'Demystifying Family Photographs' learned techniques for identifying photos from different eras.
